PROGRESS OF THE CANVASS. "FRAUD!" CRIES MR. QUIGG.

to tell the people of New-York at the present time whom they should elect for their officers, and especially that they ought to elect officers with reference to some ticket which has been gotten up out in Nebraska or Ohlo, is a pure farce, (Cheers.)

But this I know, that the people of the State of New-York will not listen to them, for if they will listen to them and will cast their votes with reference to some result that is to take place out in Ohio or Nebraska, the neople of the city of New-York will be controlled by it, not the people of Ohio or the people of Nebraska. (Cheers.)

As Mr. Low left the hall he was greeted with another fusillade of cheers and the burning of colored lights. He drove at once to the Murray Hill Lyceum, where an audience of between seven hundred and eight hundred people awaited

REMARKS OF JAMES C. CARTER.

Before his turn to address the meeting came James C. Carter had some exceedingly spirited say. Although, as he pointed out, it would not be possible during the next generaton to make New-York the largest in point of territory and population of the world's cities, yet in education in splendor, in equality and in health, and in other matters which contributed to human happiness, it was possible to make this Empire City the leader of the world. Commenting upon the dearth of school accommodation in New-York, he asked, "Where has the money gone that should have been devoted to the huilding of schools and other improvements?" Mr. Carter did not answer the question directly, but said that his hearers must form their own judgment as to the proper answer to his question. But in helping his hearers to arrive at their opinion he explained "When you see a man without any permanent or settled business in life able to compete with the richest men in Europe on the English racecourse, it is not hard to form your judgment as to where that money has gone." territory and population of the world's cities,

CHEERING FOR THE CANDIDATE.

When Mr. Low was introduced by the chairan, there was a great display of enthusiasm. For fully ten minutes the people cheered wildly, ome standing on chairs, and others waving hats and handkerchiefs. When at last he got a hearing Mr. Low proceeded with his address, which was mainly founded upon what he said at the first meeting. Charles A. B. Pratt presided, and among the speakers was John De

The only reason that induces me to notice 'The Sun's article is that it contains a letter written by me while a member of Congress, and addressed to a man who was then a United States weigher, "Of course, I cannot be diverted from the course

I have marked out by personal attacks in 'The Sun.' It is not the first time that blackmailing threats of publishing my private letters have been made, when I had the temerity to differ with certain men in regard to party matters; but it has been reserved for 'The Sun' to carry the threat into execution. I say to this newspaper agent what I then said to the principal, that, of course, no man cared to see his private correspondence pub-man cared to see his private correspondence published, as doubtless it contained many foolish and unwise expressions, but, as I did not believe that any letter of mine could be produced containing either a dishonest or dishonorable proposition, they might go ahead. They did not do it then, but "The Sun" is engaged in it now.

"No fair-minded man, after reading that letter, will say that it is other than friendly advice, although I have forgotten the circumstance. It is twenty years old. Blackie is dead, but I cheerfully indorse what I said to the Secretary of the Treasury, that I was under political obligations to him. I am very glad that now, many years after his death, I can say what doubtless was said to the Secretary, that I believed him to be an honest official, and that, beyond carelessness or occasional neglect of duty, no charge could be established. The men who for political reasons dragged his name out of the grave and before the public must assume the responsibility for this smirching of his memory."

ALLEGED FRAUDULENT PETITIONS.

James B. Reynolds, of the Citizens Union, says he has discovered fraudulent petitions in Kings, Queens and Richmond counties. He declares that a man named Lee is at the bottom of a scheme whereby Democratic candidates' names are printed on peti Democratic candidates' names are printed on petitions bearing the Citizens Union emblems and the name of Seth Low. The traud began, says Mr. Reynolds, with a mass-meeting, which was transformed into a convention, at which Democratic candidates were named for various offices. Mr. Reynolds says that he does not intend to take any other steps than those leading to the seizure and cancellation of these certificates. No legal proceedings tending to the punishment of the alleged guilty parties will be taken.

COUNTY CLERK SUTPHEN, OF QUEENS, DECLARES IT ENTITLED TO THE NAME CITIZENS UNION.

John H. Sutphin, County Clerk of Queens County yesterday announced his decision in the case of the three elaimants for the right to have the Citizens Union ticket in the county. He decided in favor of the ticket headed by James H. Renwick, for President of the Borough, which indorsed all the President of the Borough, which indorsed all the nominees of the Republican party except County Clerk, the Democratic candidate, John H. Sutphin, being named, and said that that ticket was the one entitled to use the Citizens Union name. The other two tickets were known as the Noble ticket, which contained the names of all the Democratic nominees, including Mr. Sutphin, and the Fritchie ticket, which contained the names of all the candidates on which contained the names of all the candidates on the Renwick ticket, with the exception that Mr. Fritchie, who is the Republican candidate, was substituted for Mr. Renwick for President of the Rorough.

These affidavits are examples of about twenty which have been received from the detectives. They establish the fact beyond dispute that the Low petition is a gigantic fraud, and if Seth Low's name is allowed to go upon the blanket ballot it will go there in plain defiance of law.

It was assumed by the three Police Commissioners who sustained this petition by their decision last Friday—two of whom, by the way, were nominted by Mayor Strong as Republicans—that the Republican protest against the Low petition was simply a protest as to its form. That was not so, it was a protest as to its form. That was not so, it was a protest as to its form. That was not so, but we require that the names attached to the petition were false and fraudulent names.

The law requires that every signatory shall appear before a notary and make oath as to his signature. We charge that in hundreds of cases this was not done, and that the notaries employed by Low were in most cases careless and in many cases criminal. And we have much evidence which ought and probably will go to the Grand Jury.

We charge that in one case a notary swore to a large number of names, no one of which was the name of a person who did actually appear before him. The law requir official nominating petition is thus proved to be a bare-faced fraud?

Ninety thousand enrolled Republicans participated in the nomination of General Tracy. Forty-three thousand of them voted at the primaries in the present city of New-York, although out of 1.32 election districts there were not fifty contests, and not twenty of the fifty related to the question of Low's candidacy. Low was nominated by twenty persons, nineteen of whom were chosen and selected by the twentieth, and even then they were so afraid of one another that they had to lock the doors.

The Republican City Committee will contest the nomination of Low in the courts. The time, unfortunately, is by law limited within which a final decision can be got. But the extent to which the Lov candidacy is built on fraud and deceit will be exposed to the voters.

BAKER WINS IN COURT.

HE IS DECLARED TO BE THE REGULAR REPUBLA CAN CANDIDATE IN CLINTON COUNTY.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Oct. 16 (Special),-Judge Kel-Plattsburg, N. Y., Oct. 16 (Special).—Judge Kellogg, in Special Term, to-day, reversed the decision of County Clyrk Wood, and decided that E. C. Baker was the regular Republican nominee for the Assembly in Clinton County. This is a victory for the Mofflit faction. The Wever faction will appeal and endeavor to have the decision set aside before the official ballots are printed.

TRACY SPEAKS IN BROOKLYN.

HE MAKES A SHORT ADDRESS BEFORE THE INVINCIBLE CLUB OF THE TWEN-TY-THIRD WARD.

The Invincible Club of the Twenty-third Ward Fulton-st., taxed to its utmost last evening by three managers of the reception, with campaign enter-prise, wisely refrained from introducing General Tracy until a late hour. By this interest was lent cause of the effect if an expect year, when we are to elect members of Congress, and on the greater struggle that awaits us in 1990. How could it be otherwise?

TELLING US HOW TO VOTE.

ADVICE AND WISDOM FROM KENTUCKY AND LOUISIANA.

Republicans of the XXVIIth Assembly District held a mass-meeting in Lyric Hall, Sixth-ave., near Forty-second-st., last evening, at which Colonel Charles R. Pope, of Kentucky, and ex-Governor P. B. S. Pinchback, of Louisiana, were the principle speakers. Among those on the platform were John Sabine Smith, E. Berry Wall, Assistant Dis-John Sainte Sinti, trict-Attorney Zaring, George A. Baker and Charles K. Lexow. Previous to the opening of the meeting, a brass band, stationed upon the veranda of the building, played several patriotic airs, and before the speaking began meeting, made a few introductory remarks. He denounced the Citizens movement. "Some of our quondam friends," he declared, "are disturbed by they denounce deals, and then deal with Socialists. The Citizens Union are troubled because of their false conception of unification. They should have known that a unifier that does not unify is a dis-organizer. Another thing that bothers them is their municipal non-partisanship. It cannot stand the test of loyalty, it cannot stand the test of patriotism, it cannot, in a word, stand the test

The entrance of the Murray Hill Republican Club, headed by a drum corps, interrupted the speaker at this point. Continuing, Magistrate Deuel applauded the personal fitness of the Republican candidate. "The party," he went on, "asks you to reaffirm the platform in the interests of the city, and as a measure of public safety and bust-ness security. Let me invoke you to put a seal ness security. Let me invoke you to put a seal of condemnation on this dogma of non-partisanship and cast your vote not only for Benjamin Tracy, but for the whole Republican ticket."

Ex-Governor Pinchback said that he had for the last fifteen years annually spent several months in New-York, and could not therefore come within the accusation directed at Senator Foraker as a foreign speaker. He said he had expected to find the hall crowded with colored men. There were not thirty colored men present, "I came from the henighted South," said the speaker, "and we don't know much about reform down there, among the Chinese and poor whites and other heathen; we can't understand this reform business. I guess it's all right, though, if it isn't you'll make it so on November 2.

"After all, though, the Republican party stands."

Chinese and poor whites and char can't understand this reform business. I guess it's all right, though; if it isn't you'll make it so on November 2.

"After all, though, the Republican party stands for the same oid questions and in the end the opposition will be found to consist of that great conglomerate mass formerly under the brilliant young leader, Mr. Bryan."

The speaker appealed to the colored man to stand by the party that had stood by him. "If the great power and patronage of this city," he went on be allowed to get into the enemy's hands, I tremide for New-York." Mr. Pinchback referred to Mr. Platt as "the greatest and most inducental citizen in this Republic to day." "Is there," he asked "a grander character in American history than Thomas C. Platt"

"Colonel Pope spoke under difficulties, having been prestrated in the course of the day. He emphasized "the necessity of party organization," and deprecated the idea of "local issues being the only ones at stake." "Not a National affair?" he asked. "I tell you fellow-cluzers, the great hosts of voters in this country are waiting with bated breath the outcome of this manicipal context." He called into question the Republicanism of Mr. Low. "Nothing will satisfy the vanity of this self-constituted boss but the destruction of the Republican, he is masquerading as a Republican. The Citizens Union would not confer, but rejected with scorn the olive branch held out by Lemuel E. Quigg. If the defeats General Tracy, he must know that the affairs of the city will be handed over to the tender mereles of Tammany. All this comes from this inordinate man, who places himself above party as the only one good enough, great enough and pure enough to administer affairs in New-York. The man to govern wou in this city is Renjamin F. Tracy, Mr. George has aloned himself on the Chleage platform, and is therefore a danders of the city will be handed over to the tender on the constant of the man to govern wou in this city is Renjamin F. The order was issued by Judge Spurrier, of the District Court, commanding the Secretary of State not to certify the Populist ticket as part of the official ballot. The Secretary is in a quandary, because the forbidden thing has been done already. Unless this action is recalled, more serious complications are threatened. The action of the Court is based on the theory that the Middle-of-the-Roaders, being a new party, cannot get on the ballot except by petition, and no petition has been filed. The bolting Populists simply claimed the right to be called the Populist party

EX-MAYOR HEWITT BACK.

HOPEFUL OF MR. LOW'S SUCCESS.

THE CITIZENS UNION CANDIDATE THE BEST MAN IN THE FIELD-WHAT THIS CAMPAIGN MEANS.

Ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Eleanor Hewitt, arrived here yesterday on the Cunard Liner Umbria after a months' visit to France. His sons, Abram S. Hewitt were at the pier to meet the ex-Mayor, who looked extremely well as he walked down the gangplank. He spent the day in the city, and in the afternoon went to Englewood. He expressed the intention of registering in the city before starting for the country, and said with a laugh, "There's one more vote

In speaking of the local political situation Mr. Hewitt said: "Seth Low is in every way amply qualified for the position of Mayor, and he would be a great credit to the city. There is now a supreme issue between a government for the people and a government for the politicians. The people and a government for the politicians. The people will choose for themselves. Neither General Tracy, representing the Republican machine; Van Wyck, representing Tammany, nor Henry George, representing destruction to property, are the men whom this city want. The indersement of Tracy by Sec-retary Bliss and Governor Black means only that the Republican machine is hanging together.

"I do not think it would be advisable for Low to retire, if Tracy would, in favor of a third or compromise candidate. He is fighting against the ma-chine, and his retirement would mean the complete triumph of the machines. He should stand if he got no more than ten votes, for it's a principle that he is fighting for.

"In regard to Mr. Bliss and his letter of con gratulation to General Tracy, it should be remem-bered that in matters political Mr. Bliss is a partisan and never goes back on the machine. He was one of the committee of citizens who asked me to run for Mayor in 1888, and I consented. Two days later he helped to nominate Colonel Erhardt. The machines always look with disfavor upon any movement for the good of the people, unless it comes from the throat of a boss. What good citizens want is simply to get good government for the municipality. National politics have absolutely nothing to do with that issue. Any sensible man knows that perfectly well. The politicians pretead to think otherwise, simply because if it is shown that an independent movement like that of the Citizens Union can win, the power of the machine to give wealth and honor to the men who control it will be in serious danger. Mr. Low is thoroughly equipped for the office of Mayor. No one even tries to deny that Mr. George, on the other hand, does not represent those who want good government. He stands for destruction. He would destroy property. I observed while I was in London that Mr. George says that in 1886 I defrauded him out of the Mayoralty. All I can say about that is that if I was able to count out 20,600 votes I must have been a pretty good politician. It seems to have taken Mr. George eleven years to discover it. Of course the thing is absuited.

"Perhaps it would hardly become me to say The machines always look with disfavor upon any years to discover it. Of course the thing is absurd.

"Perhaps it would hardly become me to say anything against Tammany. It elected me to every office that it nominated me for. But everybody knows what Tammany wants—it simply wants to get the offices back. Public plunder is the sole object of the existence of Tammany Hall. Democratic institutions are now on trial in the territory of New-York. The people have a chance to put a decent man in the Mayor's chair. If they choose an unit man, it will be a condemnation of popular government in city's. But I cannot believe that the people are so timelies as to do that; I do not think it possibly can happen."

LEADERS AT HIS HEADQUARTERS HOPEFUL OF HIS ELECTION.

was recapitulation day at the various headquarters yesterday. The campaign is now in full swing. The confusion and chaos that marked the situation previous to the final nominations of the various parties have largely disappeared. and the political atmosphere is somewhat clearer than it was a week ago. The managers of the four principal tickets in the field were busy yesterday recounting the incidents of the last week and carefully weighting every point to ascertain its bearing upon the final result. At no place was there such careful, thoughtful and earnest consultation as at the headquarters of the Citizens Union. Mr. Low did not go there himself. but General Anson G. McCook, who has practically taken charge of Mr. Low's canvass, was on hand. Charles Stewart Smith came in and other leaders were also present. As the result of a long conference Charles Stewart Smith spoke in the most hopeful way of the situation. He summed it up

"The only question for voters to de ide in the coming election is whether they prefer Seth Low and everyone seemed to enjoy it except its hero or Mr. Croker's candidate for Mayor. As to Mr. Decker, who shared the honors with the girl his support? Manifestly from the Republican organization only. It is well known that a larke number of enrolled Republicans are firm supporters of the Chizens Union candidate and will divide the Republican vote with Tracy. Seth Low has the support of the German-American Reform Union and other organizations, including the Home Rule Democracy, the National Democracy and the Brookfeld-Wager Swayne Republican Organization. Then Brooklyn will undoubtedly give the largest majority for Low that has ever been given for any candidate in that city. A vote for General Tracy is in its final analysis a vote for Croker's candidate. Not one, not even his most enthus shastle supporters, believes that he has the slightlest chance of election. Mr. Low has so manifestly the lead as the people's candidate that it would seem to me that no man who does not desire to escape from the crowd, its plaudits, and the handshaking, though he stayed by the gir's side. The two receptions were set for so clock. By 6 o'clock Madison Square began to fill with people. Two stands had been creeted backed by transparencies one in the centre of the square, for the 6th Regiment Band, the other at the Worth monument, for the 7th Regiment Band. The transparencies bore legends of welcome. In front of the old Brunswick Hotel a searchlight was stationed and as 8 o'clock approached hombs were discharged from the roofs of Delmonico's and colored lights were burned along Fifth-ave.

way." McCook, just before closing up affairs McCook, just before closing up affairs peint that way."
General McCook, just before closing up affairs for the week, spoke in a cheery, hearty way about the progress made by Mr. Low's candidacy. The programme of the organization Republicans to flood New-York with outside speakers has caused hundreds of people to write to the headquarters of the Chizens Union denouncing in no measured terms this interference. General McCook has gone over the ground thoroughly, and he sums up by saving:

terms this interference. The train are now has been over the ground thoroughly, and he sums up by saying.

"I can confidently assert that 50 per cent of the Republicans of New-York City have gone over to Mr. Low; we shall get 60 per cent of the Republican vote in Kings County, and I think that each day will see voters allenated from the Republican organization coming over to Mr. Low. Mr. Low's speeches are great vote-makers, and I never knew of a more successful and convincing canvass than the one Mr. Low is now making. Add to this percentage of the Republican vote which I have cited the great number of Germans, independent organizations, and the unquestioned silent vote that we know is with us, and I think that Mr. Low's chance for election is not only excellent, but his election is assured."

The campaign of the Citizens Union will be kept up with aggressive carnesiness from this time until Election Day. The district organizations are becaming more thoroughly cemented and are now in excellent shape. Mr. Low will continue to so to headquarters every day and make addresses at various meetings in the evening."

THOUSANDS SEE MISS CISNEROS.

BRASS BANDS, FIREWORKS AND BIG CROWDS IN MADISON SQUARE AND AROUND DELMONICO'S TO WELCOME HER.

Amid patriotic music from brass bands, the boom of thousands of people, Evangelina Cosslo y Cisto the American public last evening in Madison Square. On a bandstand opposite the Hoffman House the girl made her bow to the crowd. Sa rescue from the hands of the Spaniards, and the humanity. People stood beneath the trees, blocke-the roads and crowded at every window of the neighboring buildings and when Miss Cisnero made her bow a great shout of acclamation burs

Besides the popular open-air demonstration, private reception was given by Miss Cisneros in the banquet ball of Delmonico's, at which a number of well-known people welcomed her to America. There, from the balcony, she also made a little speech in Spanish, which set the Cuban sympathetic cheers from the Americans. There by the presence of Cubans and Americans in uni-form in and about Delmonico's. The whole was arranged by "The New-York Journal," which through its correspondent, Karl Decker, made Miss Cisneros's escape from prison possible, and brought Hefore 8 o'clock Miss Cisneros left the Hotel Wal-dorf in a carriage with Mrs. J. Ellen Forster, of the Ladles' Cuban Relief Association, who was be chaperen for the evening; Karl Decker, and the in chaperon for the evening; Karl Decker, and the in-terpreter, Mr. Goudte. The carriage was escorted to Delmonico's by Cubans dressed in the uniform of their army and armed with rifles and machetes, naval cadets of the port of New-York and a delegatheir army and armed with rifles and machetes, naval cadets of the port of New-York and a delegation from the trish Volunteers. Colonel James Moran, of the latter organization, was in charge of the parade. At belinonico's Miss Cisneros was received by Mrs Karl Decker and excerted through a double file of naval cadets to the reception-room. There with Mrs Ferster and Mr. Decker to present the people she held a formal lever for about an hour. She was deessed in white.

She was escorted out to the stand in Madisor Square, and, only staying long enough to how and smile upon the assembled multitude, she returned to Delmonico's. There she was placed in the halcomy of the banquet hall, and spont the rest of the evening receiving a few persons and bowing to the cheers which occasionally came up from the crowd in the hall below. Her speech to the crowd was a simple expression of thanks for their kind welcome. There were continual shouts for a speech from Mr. Deckert, but he stoutly refused to comply with the request. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The crowd that walted for hours in the open air to catch a glimpse of Miss Cisneros were entertained by short speeches from Murat Halstead, United States SeSnator Thurston, Congressman Sulzer, Dr. de Taga and Henry George, who was greeted with the cry, "Where's Tom Johnson?" Among those present at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Henry George, Murat Halstead, Dr. Egbert Guernsey, the Rev. W. F. Brush, Dr. and Mrs. H. Holbrock Tomas, Estrada Palma, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Wilson, Victor Mapes, Mrs. Edward Neal, Colonel and Mrs. Charles F. Pishback, Charles W. Houston and Benjamin Wood.

It is now planned that Miss Cisneros shall go to Washington in a few days for a reception by the Ladies' Cuban Relief Association.

NOTES OF THE CANTASS.

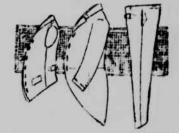

Alderman Elfas Goodman is the Republican nominee for re-election in the XXIst Assembly District. Ronald K. Brown has withdrawn, and, in a letter, states that "Mr. Ellas Goodman has by his past record as a capable, honest and efficient public officer, demonstrated his fitness for the position." This leaves the field practically clear for Mr. Goodman. Mr. Goodman is entitled to a return to the Board, and his services will be of value in shaping the legislative future of the new municipality.
